GATHERED UP.

The girl who marries without love deserves a divorce without alimony.

Look only for the good in others and you will be surprised how much that is noble you will find.

"God helps those who help their neighbors" is a loftier sentiment than "God helps those who help themselves."

The cleaner the clear the more persistently does the cheap smoker puff it in the faces of his fellow travelers.

Business will have its periodical reverses so long as a man who couldn't pay cash for a wheelbarrow is able to buy an automobile on credit. —Nashville American.

"And you really mean to tell me that a clairvoyant foretold your late husband's death?"

"Yes, indeed. She said there were brighter days in store for me." —Story Stories.

"Why do you always go out on the balcony when I begin to sing, John? Can't you hear to listen to me?"

"It isn't that, but I don't want the neighbors to think I'm a wife beater." —Kansas City Journal.

The New York Sun shed a ray of its sarcastic sunshine when it observed: "Business must never be allowed to interfere with politics." This saying is equal to another to the effect of drinking later, for your business, give up business."

Everyone must see daily instances of people who complain from a mere habit of complaining, and make their friends uneasy and strangers merry by murmuring at evils that do not exist and repining at grievances which they do not really feel.

Automobiles are the order of the day. A Worcester bank man says that his bank holds about 70 mortgages of residences of people who have purchased autos. If one bank holds that amount, wonder how many mortgages for the same purpose the aggregate of banks hold. —EX.

He is a home merchant who takes pride in home institutions and helps forward home enterprises; who employs home labor and encourages home talent; who buys for himself and family as much as possible from fellow merchants in other lines. He is a home merchant who contributes of his own free will and according to his ability toward local benevolent objects and helps support the religious workers; who considers himself as one of the people. —Mansfield News.

How many ever ask themselves who they are, or what they are here for? Very, very few, and so they drift along from day to day, carried first this way, then that, as a leaf is drawn along the current of a stream, and with no more purpose either. Finally, the end of this life is reached but what are they there for, and why was the beginning ever made? They cannot tell you; no, for their education never taught them that, or how to open their eyes and discover it for themselves. —EX.

THE POOR MAN'S GYM.

"Would you mind telling me," asked Mrs. Boardman, glancing admiringly at the athletic shoulders of the prospective boarder, "how you do keep in such splendid physical condition?"

"I go through a few gymnastic exercises every morning," confessed the young man, blushing.

"Well, I'm sorry, but we can't board you. I've had the bathroom monopolized that way before." —Kansas City Times.

GET THE FACTS.

Those who wonder that more vigorous measures are not taken to punish alleged violations of the law should bear in mind that other people besides themselves object to going into court as witnesses, and that unless there are enough good witnesses there is no use in making prosecution.

The first step toward the vanishing "Civic Rightness" will be for its apostles to volunteer to die and furnish the evidence of the wrong doing they allege. "Glittering generalities" are not enough to base prosecutions upon. Cold, hard facts are demanded.

Shoe Industry.

Shoe factories are busy, working to their capacity, and are supplied with orders enough for several weeks, but buyers of shoes are not showing animated interest in the future. Trading has been limited, in spite of the somewhat unlimited number of buyers who have been in Boston recently. Orders have been confined to small quantities, beyond the more immediate needs for fall and winter. There is no complaint that the present shoe-making season is unsatisfactory. It is not a good business has been done, taking everything into consideration.

That new business for 1910 has not developed better is due to the argument that if the duty on hides should be lowered or repealed, there should be a sympathetic movement in the cost of leather, resulting in steeper and even lower prices of shoes.

That price schedules could not be immediately altered is understood, but shoe buyers have felt that if the manufacturers at some later date could reduce prices below the present high level, they might just as well begin now and spread out the adjustment on their books, rather than spring it all at once. In this way immediate results would be seen, and the inconsiderate public would be satisfied, because they would see that a reduction in shoes was to immediately follow the reduction in raw material.

On this account buyers have not been willing to accept shoe manufacturers' prices as conclusive, for they seemed too arbitrary, and business in future goods has not been so brisk as it should have been at this time of the year.

Under existing circumstances, to begin clearance sales at this time seems like crowding them ahead, and some dealers hold the opinion that Aug. 15 is the proper date, but such sales are now in progress in many places.

It is very evident that buyers intend to wait until the salesmen go on their routes before placing spring orders. The samples have been seen, but until the question of prices is settled there will be little done. The salesmen will start directly after Labor Day.

Current business is limited to small orders for heavy goods, but these in the aggregate, with what are already in hand, make a fairly good movement. There has been some increase in business, heavy line goods, and call goods and viel kid have been more active. In women's goods, business has not been very brisk, except in shoes of better grades, which have improved the past week. Staple lines continue to find favor in all kinds of goods, and novelties are not much sought.

Rice & Hoteliers have commenced operations on their new factory at South Braintree, which will be situated near the Clifton shop, near the railroad tracks. The shop will be 210 feet in length and of the same height as Clifton shop. The building is to be completed in November. When the factory is in operation the firm expects a daily output from both factories of 11,000 pairs of shoes. —Boston Transcript.

Faunal Natural History.

McPhee was a Bull in the Street. He told all the neighbors so. He knew how high Copper and Steel And Union Pacific would go. But something went wrong with his guess. And prices came down with a slam. McPhee is no longer a Bull.

He's like the whole crowd—he's a Lamb. McPhee had a beautiful home. Of pictures and things it was full. Until he neglected his work. And went in the Street as a bull: His time of prosperity's past. It happened—that usual thing—And now the poor fellow can see That, like all the rest, he's a Lamb. McPhee was a very wise Bull.

At least so the neighbors all thought And some followed after his ways— They blame him because they were caught. But now that the curtain's aside, Perhaps they can see through the sham. A fellow may think he's a Bull, But, just like the rest, he's a Lamb. —New York World.

MARCIA'S FREEDOM.

By MARION MANVILLE.

Copyright, 1939, by Associated Literary Press.

The announcement came like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky. Marcia Deane had broken her engagement with Jack Kelly.

—H. Franklin Perry has moved his insurance and real estate office to the S. A. White building, next to the Weymouth Savings Bank.

—Wm. Loneragan, clerk at Harlow's pharmacy is spending his vacation at Coney Island and other points of interest.

SOUTH WEYMOUTH.

—Mrs. H. W. Barnes, Miss Helen Barnes and Mrs. Fred Blanchard are enjoying an outing at Coney Island.

—Mr. and Mrs. George E. Reed have come to Maine, where they will stay a few weeks.

—Miss Ruth Wright is the guest of friends in Wrentham.

—Walter Gilson has returned after a visit to Calais, Me., his former home, where he attended the funeral of his father.

—Herbert Bass of Concord, a former resident of this place, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bass on Pleasant street.

—Edward McGarry has returned after a two weeks outing at Falmouth.

—Frank Stowell's family have returned from Fort Point after a month's stay at their cottage.

—Charles Brown has severed his connections in Sylvester's market, East Weymouth and has accepted a position as clerk of Henry C. Jessemann's hardware store.

—Elmer Thayer of Baltimore, Md., was the recent guest of his uncle, Edgar S. Wright.

—William A. Hannaford, aged 50, who was tragically assaulted near his home in the "Old City" last Wednesday died in the Grace Hospital, Boston, last Saturday morning from the results of the blows which he received on his head.

—Hannaford is survived by a wife, a daughter Margaret and two sons, Thomas and William Hannaford. Burial services were held Tuesday afternoon, and interment was in Lakeview cemetery.

—An inquest into the death of Hannaford at the Quincy District Court to determine, if possible, the cause leading to Mr. Hannaford's death. William S. Conant, who is held in a $5,000 bond on the charge of having assaulted Hannaford, is expected to appear at the inquest.

—Box 52 was somed twice last week for wood fires. The first alarm Tuesday for a fire on Thicket street. The fire was small and quickly subdued by the firemen.

It was somed again about three o'clock Wednesday afternoon for a fire in the woods about a mile from Pond street. The fire originally started in North Abington and was carried by the wind into Rockland and Weymouth territory. The fire was covering such a large space that assistance was sought from Housatonic, Nash's Corner. The fire was checked after four hours work and by back firing.

Old South Church Notes.

Services of morning worship and the Sunday school will be resumed next Sunday morning, with preaching by Rev. Robert H. Carey of Weymouth. The C. E. Society welcomes all to its meeting at 6 o'clock, and the Thursday evening meeting will be at 7:45 o'clock.

A cordial invitation is extended to all in the village who may find it convenient to join in any of these services.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

The column under this title will be given to the people for a free discussion of any and all subjects of interest to the community. The editor disclaims all responsibility for the opinions expressed.

Mr. Editor—

Please allow me space enough in your paper to call the attention of water takers to the hose rules, copies of which can be had on application to the water office.

The rules pertaining to it, have, and now are, very much disregarded; there seems to be little consideration given to the rights of the majority by the minority who by their disregard of the rules act as if the majority had no rights which the minority were morally or legally bound to respect.

It is very important for the department to be obliged to employ inspectors for the purpose of stopping the use of hose out of regulation hours in order that justice may be done to those who live up to the rules. I wish to appeal to the sense of honor of those who are unliking, perhaps, abusing the privileges.

I ask them to carry out the "square deal" suggested by the automobile signs, which have given such good results in many cities and towns.

The few who may use the hose contrary to the rules and do not get caught, must remember that they are in the wrong just the same as if they had been caught, and it is to them I would especially appeal to try the "square deal."

Be considerate of the rights of others, in short, live up to the rules; you will live longer by doing right and your grass will be just as green.—Try it.

D. M. EASTON.

A Nabob.

"Rich as a nabob" is an expression not infrequently heard, but why a "nabob" should thus be associated with wealth and who he was precisely is not so generally known. Under the great mounds of the provinces of India were administered by deputies known by the designation of "nabob," who commonly amassed much money and lived in great splendor. The office and the title continued under British rule in the Orient, but gradually the word became corrupted into "nabob" and was applied generally to all natives who had grown rich. More lately it has been bestowed—often in a derisive sense—upon Europeans who, having made large fortunes in India, returned home and spent their money in a luxurious and ostentatious way.—London Scraps.

—Dennie Peattie, who is making quite a success as a boy soprano, will sing at the Olympic center, Bangor Park this Friday evening in the contest for the "Amateur Night" prizes that are awarded. Conductors and motormen from the local car barn where Dennie is a great favorite will be there to give him support.

—Edward Howley of Schenectady, N. Y., is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Howley, Broad street, for a short stay. Mr. Howley is just recovering from a severe illness and will return to Schenectady when sufficiently recuperated.

—At the recent Weymouth Shoe and Leather Fair held on the Charles River the exhibit from the Edwin Clapp shoe factory proved a great attraction. The shoes displayed far outclassed any other ones footwear exhibited.

—On the Lake street grounds Saturday, Keith's No. 8 baseball team were defeated in an exciting game by a score of 11 to 9 by Crescent Lodge L.O.O.F. The game was full of fast playing and spectacular plays. Higgins of the Keith team took the batting honors by sending a hit over the wall in Center field for a home run with two men ahead of him. The batter was French and Keene for Crescent Lodge, and Colony and Higgins for Keith. Loneragan took all the honors in the fielding.

—Robert C. Steel of 75 Church street, Weymouth Heights, is home from an extended automobile trip to South Haven, Michigan. This was a long trip, but it included the marriage of Mr. Steel to a Miss of the Michigan city, a Miss Allen, and the bride's trip was a two thousand mile automobile ride to the Weymouth home.

—William A. Dunbar left town on Wednesday for Salt Lake City where he will represent Post 55, G. A. R., in the National Encampment to be held there.

—Mr. and Mrs. Philip McLaughlin of Broad street are contemplating moving to Buffalo, N. Y., where Mr. McLaughlin is employed. Their home on Broad street has been rented, and they expect to leave soon.

GATHERED UP.

Deserve your neighbor's respect, and in all probability, he'll give it to you.

Somebody has remarked that it is pleasant to have poor relations than to be one.

At twenty years of age the will reigns; at thirty, the wit; at forty, the judgment.

It is better to be alone than in bad company, but some people can't be alone without being in bad company.—Russet.

Don't be a gossip. Try not even to listen to stories about other people, and never, never repeat them.

Father—"I never imagined that your studies would cost me so much money."

"Yes, and I don't study much, either."

Never contradict anybody in general society. Rarely do it even at home.

Nobody likes to be contradicted, even when contradiction is deserved.

Arresting and doing heavily eleven young men at Cambridge this week for loitering on street corners was a move in the right direction. Loitering, no matter where, should not be tolerated.—Ex.

Give me good work to do, that I may forget myself and find peace in doing it. For these. Though I am poor, send me to carry some gift to those who are poorer, some cheer to those who are more lonely.—Henry Van Dyke.

Every time a girl wants to do anything in her top bureau drawer she gets a stick and stirs everything in the drawer round and round. If what she is looking for doesn't come to the surface, then she is satisfied it isn't there.—Acheson Globe.

Jenkins (speaking to his friend, the editor, about the death of Riche, the millionaire)—How much is he worth, I wonder?

Editor (absentmindedly)—Not much. Not more than a quarter of a column in the outside.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Concerning the reliability of things in print, it is recalled that Charles Sumner criticised General Grant savagely, and some time after some one was talking to Grant about abolition in New England and remarked, "Even Sumner does not believe in the Bible." "Why should he?" quickly replied Grant. "He didn't write it."

A Philadelphian who was formerly a resident of a town in the north of Pennsylvania recently revisited his old home.

"What became of the Hoover family?" he asked an old friend.

"Oh," answered the latter, "Tom Hoover did very well—got to be an actor out west. Bill, the other brother, is something of an artist in New York, and Mary, the sister is doing literary work. But John never amounted to much. He took all he could lay his hands on to support the others."—Lippincott's.

A JOE DEFERRED

"Ay tank Ay across the street and get the tailor to mend my waist," drawled a Swedish foreman, showing his employer

A VERY RAGGED VEST.

"All right, John."

In a few minutes the Swede returned with his vest untouched.

"Aren't you going to have it mended?" asked the boss.

"Ay tank not in that shop," replied the Swede. "Ay ask him what he charge and he say 'Two dollar.' Then Ay ask him, 'Will you take the vest in part payment?' and he wouldn't do it."—Everybody's Magazine.

THE TIME TO SAVE.

As a general rule the question whether a man's career is to spell success or failure is settled between the ages of thirty and forty-five.

If a man cannot attain prosperity at forty his chances after that age are remote.

At fifty the sensible man plays for safety rather than for high stakes, for after that age not one man in five thousand can recover his financial position if he should come a cropper.

At sixty 35 per cent are either dependent upon their daily earnings or upon their relatives.

It is evident, therefore, that no man should put off saving for old age after he has passed his fortieth birthday.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Judge Not.

Let us believe the best: there are enough, you know.

But the payroll checks kept coming very regular to the bank.

Somehow the highways didn't seem to lose their rats and lumps.

An every time we went to town we had to bump the bumps.

We found it hard to comprehend what such delay could mean.

In work so well inspected, supervised and addressed.

To vindicate our efforts to uplift and to progress.

We have solved the difficulty and our hearts are full of joy.

At last discipline maintained. We find that no count boy.

Where the Hippopotamus Lurks.

Herds of hippopotamuses are not found anywhere in central Africa.

They stick to the swampy shores, overgrown with the papaya plant, which affords them cover by day when they feed on land, sometimes walking long distances away from the lake or river in search of palatable herbs.

The hippopotamus is a great eater. A cow hippopotamus stays with her calf until the young one gets strong enough to walk and swim—Exchange.

She Knew.

"How stupid you are, Lola," exclaimed her mother. "I don't know how you know the difference between a fried oyster and a whale."

"Yes, I do, mamma," replied the little miss. "Time is cooked and the little fish is fried."—Chicago News.

UNDER THE SURFACE

An Incident That Brought Content to a Dissatisfied Woman.

By ROY RICHARDSON.

"My sorry wife," observed Mrs. Edmunds to her husband as they drove to go out. "We shan't have a good time."

"Why?" her husband inquired. "I always liked Ned."

"Yes," responded Mrs. Edmunds. "I like them both, but, Will, try as hard as I may, they make me awfully jealous."

"What?" her husband inquired. "I always liked Ned."

HIS FIRST RECOGNITION.

The Turning Point in the Career of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

The first reading of "The Scarlet Letter" had been told in T. W. Higginson's book of essays, "Contemporaries." The reading was given to the author's dearest critic, his wife. During the author's winter when he was at work upon the book he seemed oppressed by some secret anxiety.

The next day in his forehead all the time," said Mrs. Hawthorne. "I was really to write of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

Let the "Blue Bell" Sign Remind You—

OF THE ERRAND YOU FORGOT TO EXECUTE, and a ready way out of the difficulty.

OF THE ORDER YOU WERE ASKED TO DELIVER for your firm or for your home.

OF THE ENGAGEMENT FOR WHICH YOU HAVE BEEN DELAYED and of the quickest way of explaining your inability to meet it.

OF THE CALL YOU PROMISED TO MAKE, but failed to make, through forgetfulness.

Of a hundred ways in which, to use a quaint phrase, you may "LET YOUR HEAD SAVE YOUR HEELS."

Remember:—

The Sign indicates the presence of a Pay Station. FROM ANY PAY STATION you may talk, at a reasonable charge, TO ANY OF 320,000 Telephones connected with the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company's system in the four northern New England states.

HIS FIRST RECOGNITION.

The Turning Point in the Career of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

The first reading of "The Scarlet Letter" had been told in T. W. Higginson's book of essays, "Contemporaries." The reading was given to the author's dearest critic, his wife. During the author's winter when he was at work upon the book he seemed oppressed by some secret anxiety.

The next day in his forehead all the time," said Mrs. Hawthorne. "I was really to write of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

"George," said the author, "I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book. I have told you that I have written some of the book."

GATHERED UP.

Many a man who looks wise can't make a living at it.

He who thinks he has little to learn learns little and teaches less.

When all the blunders of life are gone,
The coward slinks to death, the brave
lives on.

Occasionally you find a grown man who seems to eat almost as much as a small boy.

The dog who barks at a bone against a hungry day shows more sense than does the man who never thinks of rainy day.

"I suppose Newrich is making quite a splurge with his money?"

"He did the day he backed his auto off
the ferryboat."—"Back."

True bravery is shown by performing without witness what one might be capable of doing before all the world.—La Rochefoucauld.

And if you fail—why, rise again? Get up and go on; you may be sorely bruised and soiled with your fall, but is that any reason for lying still, and giving up the struggle cowardly?—Charles Kingsley

"Is Bluffier a kind husband and a good father?" "He means to be," answered Miss Cayenne; "but his idea of making home happy is to bring around a photograph with a lot of dog-fight records."—
Washington Star.

Those people who enjoy a "joke" on a man.
Instead of bothering a man unnecessarily,
they devote the same time to pleasing him? A man has so many rough places to climb over that he greatly appreciates
a little kindness.—Atchinson Globe.

Do not try to be anything else but a gentleman or a gentlewoman, and that means one who has consideration for the whole world, and whose life is governed by the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would be done by."—Home Herald.

"A college education," declared the enthusiastic mother, "brings out all that is good in a boy."

"Yes," retorted William's father, "and in Bill's case I wish a little of it could have stayed in."—Cleveland Press.

"That man says he will create some excitement if he gets into congress."
"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "he is one of those peculiar patriots who want to climb on board the ship of state simply for the pleasure of rocking the boat."—Washington Star.

"What makes your son so eager for athletics?"
"Filial admiration," answered the worried looking mother. "He believes all the stories his father tells about the wonderful things he did when he was a boy,
and is trying to equal the record."—Washington Star.

Massachusetts has in its public and semi-public libraries an average of 632 books for each person in the State, this being the highest average in the United States. New Hampshire comes second with 233 books to each person; Connecticut is third with an average of 225, and Rhode Island is fourth with an average of 200 volumes.

"One of my ancestors was a signer of the Declaration of Independence," said
the boastful youth.

"I'm sure he deserved credit for his opinions," answered Miss Cayenne, "although if you ever circulated a petition
you will know that some people are anxious to sign everything that comes along whether they know what is in it or not."— Washington Star.

AN INCOMPLETE ASSERTION.
"I am a self-made man," remarked the aggressive citizen.

"Well," answered Grandpa Whetstone,
"go ahead."

"What more is there to say?"
"That remark about being self-made always requires explanation as to whether it is a brag or an apology."—Washington Star.

A PUSER.
Ellie, the little daughter of a clergyman,
pranced into her father's study one evening while the reverend gentleman was preparing a lengthy sermon for the following Sunday.

She looked curiously at the manuscript
for a moment, and then turned to her father.

"Where," she began, seriously, "does God tell you what to write?"

"Certainly, dearie," replied the clergyman.

"Then why do you scratch so much of it out?" asked Ellie.

EASILY REMEMBERED.
An old lawyer, who is a noted wit, has
for his partner another old fellow who is very conservative and strait-laced. Recently the wit remarked to his partner that it was advisable to employ a female stenographer in the office, maintaining that stenographers of that kind were much more satisfactory than males.

But the partner didn't like the idea.
"My dear fellow," he objected, "I don't think it would be proper. It wouldn't do wonder if you see, here I should be in the office, hour after hour every day, quite alone with the young lady, and—"

"Well," observed the wit, with a twinkling eye, "couldn't you holler?"—New York Times.

Striving.
If all the end of this continuous striving flow poor would seem the planning and contriving.
The endless urging and the hurried driving of body heart and brain!

But ever in the wake of true achieving
There shines this glowing trail—
Some other soul will be spurred on, conceiving
New strength and hope, in its own power
Believing
Because thou didst not fail.

Not time alone the glory nor the sorrow
If thou dost miss the goal,
Undreamed of lives in many a far tomorrow
From thee their weakness or their force
Shall borrow,
On, on, ambitious soul!

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Shoe Industry.

There is very little buying in progress in the shoe markets. Manufacturers are receiving contracts by mail which will give work enough to keep plants busy for some time in connection with the contracts they now have in reserve, so they are not dependent on the buyers for immediate business. It is still hoped that the abolition of the hides tariff will break
the spell of high-priced goods, but inasmuch as leather has been selling at a big figure are not commensurate with the cost of hides, leather manufacturers consider that any grain which may accrue to them
is but a normal equalization of conditions.
The fact that several kinds of leathers
now largely used in making a shoe, such as sheep, calf and goat leathers, have not been affected by the removal of the duty
is advanced as another reason why there can be little or no change in prices.

Removing the tariff does not increase to any great extent the number of hides available. The annual takeoff is unaffected by duties. If there are to be cheaper shoes there must be more leather
which must come from increased herds,
and herds do not increase in proportion to the uses of leather.

Manufacturers are getting well along
in their contracts for new wares of staple lines, and the volume of new business is not large. There is little new business in medium and fine grade goods. The market has not been very brisk in the high-priced lines, and novelties have not been attractive. Manufacturers of women's and children's goods are steadily employed, but there is little coming in.
They have contracts on hand to finish which will keep the shops running for some time.

Samples are being made for salesmen who go out in September. Till then there will be no marked activity.

Business activity varies somewhat, according to territory. New England is quiet as already stated. The retail business in New York is featureless, and wholesalers are marking time with retailers. In the Northwest and middle West the good crops are helping to give promise to an active trade this fall. On account of the peculiar conditions experienced this year, some of the large manufacturers are intending to start their salesmen out at once with the samples for 1910
and thereby try to overcome the prospects of another delayed season. In St. Louis
there is considerable activity, and a fair
business is being done by wholesalers,
and some good orders are being placed.
—Boston Transcript.

Highland Park.

Philip D. Greene, the world-famous equilibrist has been engaged by the Old Colony St. Ry. Co., to appear and give free exhibitions afternoon and evening all next week at Highland Park.

He does one of the most thrilling and thoroughly sensational acts that have ever been seen at the park. It is in the nature of a globe balancing act which requires 15 minutes. He has a spiral runway, flat and without guard rail or grooves, 1-1/2 feet long up and down which he travels upon a round wooden ball 25 inches in diameter to a height of 20 feet.

Not content with his feat during which the slightest misstep would hurl him to the ground, he has a great roller-board 20 feet from the ground upon which he does all kinds of startling balancing stunts.
During the evening performance he adds picturesqueness and brilliancy by making his final descent with a veritable shower
of gold and silver sparks from a fireworks display which is touched off.

By the Company's voluntary concession, Industrial Policyholders whose policies were issued since January 1, 1907, and were in force July 1, 1909, will have

OVER $20,000,000 ADDED TO THEIR POLICIES

Justice and liberality
prevail in The Prudential's dealings with its Policyholders.

What is Industrial Life Insurance?

It is a system of Life Insurance introduced on this continent by The Prudential and designed principally for wage-earners. Premiums range from 3 cents per week up, and are collected weekly by Agents who call at the homes of the Policyholders. The policies are issued from ages 1 to 70, for amounts from $15 up, on the lives of both sexes.

ON THE FARM.

As a rule, a horse bred in the forelock will be intelligent and kind.

It is better to feed judiciously than plentifully. Many horses are fed into poor condition.

The feet of a horse must be kept clean and in a healthy condition if he is to do the best service.

Hens that are expected to lay during the winter must be provided with a warm roosting place, warm enough to avoid danger of frost to combs and wattles, but well ventilated.

Set your currant bushes quite deep, and let them get a good grip on the soil, for if they do not, an open winter has a way of getting under the roots and heaving them out.

The poor places in the dooryard should be attended to at once. They are an eyesore to you and a discredit to your place. Grass seed can be worked into the ground after it is husened.

For a succession of lettuce during the hot weather sow only the black seed varieties, which are heat resisting. Lettuce is a shade loving plant, and the best results will be obtained by providing a shelter of cheese cloth.—Indianapolis News.

Every farmer should use long handled tools instead of short ones and have his plow handles as far apart again as most of them have. The seats on his vehicles should be high enough and deep enough to enable him to sit up straight and not acquire a humped back.

Profits in dairying do not depend so much upon the number of cows kept, but upon the kind. This fact is being realized more and more as the dairy industry increases. One way to increase the acreage of a farm is to increase the fertility of the soil of a farm; similarly, one way to increase a dairy herd is to increase the cows' producing power.

It is advisable not to pasture the seed and growth clover but allow it to blossom and seed. Should it not be desired to cut it for seed, it may be pastured or turned under after seed has formed. In this way the land will become reseeded at little or no expense. Clover seed turned under will remain vital down in the soil for several years and sprout and grow when again turned up to the surface.

Of all roots, except potatoes, beets are the most sensitive to frost. Carrots will stand considerable freezing without much injury being mostly deep in the ground, but they must be left to thaw in the ground. Parsnips and vegetable oyster plants are better for being allowed to remain out all winter, and of parsnips, especially, only sufficient should be put in the cellar for use when those out of doors can not be gotten at.

In discussing the question as to whether or not it will pay to thin apples, a practical fruit grower says: "When there is a general crop of apples and the crop set is very full, so that the chances for small fruit are very great and widespread over the country, it will pay to thin to such an extent as to insure good sized fruit; otherwise it will not pay, except as a protection to the tree."

It is not necessary for a barn to shout "silage" at you as soon as you approach it. Stable ventilation is an ever present care in the production of fresh milk and milk products, as every good dairyman knows. Cleanliness, good ventilation and carelessness all along the line, in cutting silage at the right time, putting it into a tight silo, handling it carefully without scattering, and cleaning up mangers and floors every day are parts of the cost of success with ensilage.—New York Farmer

Along with the preaching of a gospel for better seed should go an even more emphatic teaching of the necessity of so rotating crops and handling the land that the use of better seed will not ultimately mean a more complete exhaustion of the soil, as a bumper crop takes just so much more fertility from the soil than a poor one. Scrub seed is plenty good enough for the chap who would only provide scrub soil conditions for that which was throughbred.

Some dairy farmers have abandoned their silos because of the evil of silage tainted milk. Silage that if well handled will not be cause of spoiled milk. It is rather the result of faulty methods of silage curing, careless ways of feeding and poor stable ventilation. In the first place, silage has a strong odor, and milk absorbs any odor very quickly. It is a bad plan to let milk stand in a stable at any time, and when doors are closed, as in winter, it is almost impossible to keep it untainted unless it is taken out at once after milking.

It is a mistake frequently made by many farmers and fruit growers to demand of the orchard that it shall take its place as one of the fields in the ordinary farm rotation, and the sooner they realize that the orchard is a place set aside for the growth of trees and fruit primarily, the sooner will fruit culture become generally profitable. To expect from the soil a normal growth of wood, an annual crop of fruit and an ordinary field crop, the same season is the height of horticultural folly. No soil contains moisture enough to produce all three profitably.

All the bush fruits are benefited by poultry, provided the soil is made soft enough for them to scratch. Bush fruits cannot thrive well in ground that is packed down hard or covered with a mat of grass. But if the plow and cultivator are operated as they should be early in the season, the ground is put in condition to yield fruit and benefit the fowls, which is the most profitable way to get two crops from the land once.—Farm Stock Journal

There is no field open to women to-day that is less crowded than the poultry field; none that offers as good returns for one's labor; none that affords so much freedom when taken as avocation, and none that makes one so nearly independent of others. Some of our best planned poultry farms, as well as our best paying ones, are the outgrowth of woman's skill and industry in planning, and her financial ability in conducting the enterprise. Most women show a qualification for neatness about poultry of which men are occasionally void, and as cleanliness is an important factor, she often outstrips our efforts of creation" in results obtained.

Country Uplift in Cactus Center.

Since the Country Life Commission called upon our rival town

There's a heap of old-time notions that'll nevermore go down.

We've outdone the type of rancher—and of all types he's the worst—

Who thinks that irrigating means a question of his thirst

We have told our shooting 'herd' of our back-to-nature needs.

And he's used the hoe promiscuously on our growth of human weeds.

We have closed the gambling places, and the good-by sign we slip

To the youth whose syzygtime fancy lightly turns to poker chips

We have had a boss-chief 'raise' and the neighbors all agree

That a more uplifted session, this here place will never see.

And we've pointed sense we started, say, a pair of high-level boots.

All the pairs contain 'ribbles of our gun-lightin' gabots.

So we've put our bid in heavy for free seeds from Uncle Sam.

And we're going to have a college and an irrigatin' dam.

We'll show 'em that for farmin' that is schooled and way up

Cactus Center's got the deadwood on that measly Spotted Pup

—Denver Republican.

Reward of Honesty.

He was a conscientious office boy and he had always been taught to emulate the great George Washington and never tell a falsehood.

"How," said he, timidly, as the town hour approached, "I want to get of this afternoon."

"Oh, you do, eh? said the old broker, peering over his glasses.

"Yes, sir, and I haven't any grand notions."

"Well, you are an exception, indeed."

"And I'm not sick."

"Extraordinary! very extraordinary!"

"In fact, sir, I want to get off to go and see the ball game."

The old broker's face brightened.

"Well, Willie, I must say that you are the most honest boy I ever met."

"Thank you, sir."

"Yes, and come to think of it, I want to see that game myself. I was afraid to leave the office at first, but now that I see you are such an honest boy I know my business couldn't be in safer hands."

It will take some time for me to get back, so you will stay an hour or so later. So long, Willie! There is nothing like being honest. When I come back I'll tell you the score!" —Chicago News

The Force of Habit.

One of the campers had done something peculiarly idiotic, and the dean said, "Dick reminds me of Thomas' colt."

"What about Thomas' colt?" asked Dick cheerfully.

"Why," the dean responded readily, "where I lived in Maine when I was a boy an old man named Thomas raised horses. He once put out to pasture a colt which had been fed from his birth in a box, stall and watered at the trough in the yard."

"The pasture lay across a small river, and in the middle of the day the colt swam the stream to go up to the barnyard for a drink of water."

We extend our sympathy to the ministers of the faith this week, as John D. Rockefeller says they are now up to a new test, that of golf, but all churches will

with hearty interest, the vacation season a few months each year, perhaps the ministers will be able to overcome all the difficulties of golf.

If a small part of the tales which are being told in regard to the municipal af-airs of "Greater Boston" are true, the present administration has been furnishing capital for the opposition when the next campaign is fought, and also, a resource who should light shy of becoming a part of "Greater Boston."

The rates continue to come in and up to date they vary from $2.00 to $2.50 West side, to $2.50 in Providence. The rate for Weymouth has been a little slow

in coming, on account of an unusual

amount of work which has fallen to the

lot of the assessors but it is here at last

and Weymouth is among the towns with reduced tax rate, it being $2.15 as against

$2.25 in 1908 and unless the town is compelled to go down, it ought to be still less

as there are now in process of building

about a new homes and all modern up-to-date structures.

FOUR-NEWS PRIZE ON FAIRMEN'S

CROPS

Taking literally the talk of agitators

that everything in America should be free to the English and Italian colonies, the fact that Weymouth has been a little slow

in coming, on account of an unusual

amount of work which has fallen to the

lot of the assessors but it is here at last

and Weymouth is among the towns with

reduced tax rate, it being $2.15 as against

Needless Forest Fires.

With a double line on the statute books,

and with practically the whole forest

area of the State under the direct supervision of State forest wardens, it would seem at first as if Massachusetts should be largely free from the heavy annual loss

in forest fires which has so long continued. Yet those who are personally interested in forest lands, and who have looked for an improvement in conditions as a result of the law passed by the Legislature of 1905, may well feel that the present situation is not satisfactory. When they go to the office of the State forestor for a discussion of the matter, they are not surprised to find their own dissatisfaction

shared by the officials.

Last year, 1908, there were 1200 forest fires reported to the State forestor. Of these, 400, or 33 per cent, were caused by locomotive sparks. The other 800 fires were presumably due to such carelessness

or malice on the part of individuals as comes under the condemnation of the law.

Yet so far as the forestor's figures go, only nine arrests and convictions, 11 per cent, can be set against these 800 fires, and these arrests were made by State game wardens, not by the newly created forest wardens.

The attention is the same in regard to

Dewees 5, Taunton 2

The Dewees defeated the Taunton team

in the Old Colony League at Taunton last Saturday by the score of 5 to 2. Because of a decision by Umpire Langdon in the fourth inning, when he called Holbeck

out for interference while Holbeck was trying to score from third, Manager

McCarthy of Taunton played the game

under protest.

The Dewees scored in the opening inning on Taunton's error, and three more runners were made in the sixth inning on hits by Girony, Thompson and O'Dowd.

The Dewees scored in the last inning on singles by Thompson, Connolly and O'Dowd.

The two teams made by Taunton came in the seventh inning with men on first and second Sullivan, got a triple to left scoring two runs. Thompson was the star performer for the Dewees, he had the Taunton team under his control all through the game. He got three hits, knocked in two runs and scored two.

The playing of Sullivan was the feature for the Taunton team. The Dewees play

Tribute of a Friend.

It is with profound sorrow that I

record the death of my old and esteemed friend Edmund S. Hunt. In his deceased community has lost a man of great worth and with far more than orinary ability. For over a half century, he with his great inventive and scientific research, won a name and reputation almost world wide. This was won by great and perseverent skill and labor, and he lived to enjoy the fruits of his great achievements. He was indeed a busy life in several lines. He was passionately fond of music and a musician of note

even in his younger days and was a charter member of the Weymouth brass band which was formed in 1872. Above all others, Mr. Hunt was the inventor of the Hunt life-saving gun and apparatus.

His reminiscences of Weymouth and other writings are too well and favorably known to need any encomium. He has passed on to find his home, and his family form and good welcome to all will be very sadly missed. He was liberal and generous to a marked degree; he would often ask his gardener if he knew any of his neighbors that were gardeners, and if so, take them a basket of selected varieties of fruit and vegetables. He made many kind and ever to him to wish to have him here all day long. Mr. Hunt was a great lover of big dogs. A large dog painting of himself and his big dog

Edna may be seen in the home in the Tafts Library reading room is a photo-

THE PRECIPITANT OF ANGLIN, SENIOR.

His Own Love Affair and That of His College Chum.

By HENRIETTA G. ROBINSON.

Copyright, 1929, by Associated Literary.

Halfway down the steps of the fraternity house Anglin turned and went thoughtfully back to the room that he shared with Beresford.

"You're dead sure you'll not change

your mind and come?" queried Anglin.

Beresford, with a volume open on his knee and a pipe gripped between his teeth, nodded emphatically.

"Then I suppose you don't mind if I take your skates? They're sharper than mine."

"Take them, of course."

But when Fred Anglin had slung the skates over his shoulder and hurried on his listless gait, he still lingered.

It seemed as though this were not all he had come back to say after all.

"I ought to tell you, Tom—there've been such pals right along—that I'm going to put my fate to the test tonight. The promise given to me by you, I don't know, but I'll be glad to listen to your raptures without experiencing a perfectly legitimate desire to sling you through the window."

"Then, old man," laughed Anglin, adding, "lucky we've not set out for

Now, I'm blessed if I understand your infatuation for Geraldine. But, as long as you are here, why do you not hold back? You are older than I, and Beresford shook his head with a grimace. "You're a wealthy frater and a settled income. I've only enough to pull me through this trial

year. When I get my diploma—well,

I shall have much more, in a matterial line. I don't dare ask Geraldine to wait until I have attained—achievement. It wouldn't be fair to her."

"It would be promise—a tresonable promise," laughed Anglin.

"Oh, I know that. But she must be considered first."

There was another handclasp, a firm

and silent one, each feeling away

for the tramp into the country, where the skaters were to assemble at Beresford's pond.

The star studied might closed down

early. When Anglin reached the appointed place the sun was low and the evening was already in full swing.

The expanse of ice was clear except for an opaque, turquoise tint.

multi-limbed promontory from here

delicately, sunshaded by a tiny tent,

a royal blue flag and a royal blue and out around and about in dilu-

sion under the sullen stars or in red

under the flaming stars, set at regular intervals, faded fantastically, sped

and faded the dark figures of the skaters.
